Homeowners Hold Meeting To Fight Proposed Zoning Change Off Route 2, Near St. Camillus Church

Scores of residents in the recently developed area off Route 2, near St. Camillus church, massed Tuesday night at the home of Francis P. Carpentino, 53 Browning rd., to protest the proposed changes in zoning, which would permit the erection of apartment houses. It was pointed out that the recent residents had bought homes, ranging from $20,000 to $35,000, in this Class A area and that there never was a previous plan for the construction of rental-type construction. They plan to stage a determined fight against the change from Residence A to C on the Town Meeting floor

The weather is cold outside, but the Park dept. is working on a long range program under the direction of "Ike" Canty. It is a six-week course for adults in the simple art of "how to play golf". And both sexes of "hackers" are there three evenings a week at the Junior High East. And the instructor is about the best that could be found, Johnny Thoren.

A graduate of Arlington High, John played hockey for two years, and coached the first golfing team Arlington ever had. A former head caddie at

Town Plans To Seek Outside Garbage Bids

The garbage-trash collection problem was reopened this week when the Town Manager met with the Selectmen Monday. It was felt garbage would again be collected alone.

It is expected that bids for the collection will be asked for in the near future. When bids were requested in November only one bidder submitted an estimated price for the collection of garbage, and his bid was thought to be too high.

Thus the Town collected them both together in the hopes of saving money. But the Town's collection of garbage and trash together and the subsequent dumping of the refuse into a "land-fill" in the Heights

Man Charged With Assault

The North Andover man being held for allegedly torturing a 12-year-old Maynard girl over the weekend has been indicted by Arlington police on a charge of assault with intent to rape.

Frederick Rogers, 28, is being held in $51,000 double-surety bail for the alleged Maynard assault.

Police Chief Albert E. Ryan said this week that a 14-year-old girl was returning to her home in the Heights last Wednesday evening when she was assaulted in front of her home.

According to police, the man held a knife at the girl's throat and attempted to force her into his car.

Police said the girl managed to free herself from her assailant and ran into her home. The man then drove off.

Where "Aid" Is Power

There is a bill now before Congress, HR 4222, that would automatically make all citizens wards of the Government on attaining the age of 65 years. And the Administration has indicated that no holds will be barred in getting it passed. Specifically, this legislation would provide for token hospital and nursing home care with incidental medical attention for the so-called "aged." It would administer this "aid" at untold expense and under the aegis of social security.

Secretary Abraham Ribicoff of the Health, Education and Welfare Department, who would automatically become the Medicare Commissioner, months ago predicted passage of such legislation this year. And, to make his eagerness unmistakable, he added, "If not in '62, then we will pass it in 1963 and if not then, we will pass it in 1964. And if we don't do it then — when we elect a President and Congress in 1964 — we will certainly pass it in 1965."

In his official position, the Secretary should be well aware that 53 percent of today's 17 million oldsters have provided themselves with some form of health insurance, and that the percentage of those covered will rise steadily as those now younger reach 65.

He should know, furthermore, that another 14 percent who are not likely to have health insurance are covered by the Government Old Age Assistance program and that the Kerr-Mills program enacted in 1960, is providing health care to still more under standards set by the states and approved by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. In all, well over two-thirds of the nation's aged are already protected against health care costs far more comprehensive than they would be under the new omnibus proposal.

Mr. Ribicoff should also, if it has escaped him, review the testimony of H. Lewis Reitz, president of the Health Insurance Association of America, before the House Ways and Means Committee in 1961. Mr. Reitz pointed out that more than 30 insurance companies offer low cost policies guaranteed renewable for life to persons over age 65. And he named in addition four different types of group coverage that have been worked out by voluntary health insurers to enable these older people to protect themselves thriftily against the high cost of serious illness or accident. It is therefore difficult to accept the idea that Mr. Ribicoff and assorted bu-

SCOUT EXPOSITION
The Battle Road District, Minutemen Council, Boy Scouts of America is planning its annual Scouting Exposition to be held on Saturday Feb. 10, at Hanscom Field, Bedford, from 2 to 7 p.m. It is expected to draw an attendance which will top last year's record crowd of ten-thousand persons.

Cubs, Scouts, and Explorers from Bedford, Concord, Carlisle, Lincoln and Lexington will present exhibits both live and static based on the theme of this year's exposition "Scouting in Action".

Over 1000 scouts are expected to participate.

Mrs. Richard M. Anderson, 34 Hutchinson rd., Mrs. Warren S. Berg, 40 Pleasant View rd., Sarah R. Kendall, 11 Academy st., and Mrs. Raymond A. Yeaton, 56 George st., attended the 89th meeting of Simmons College Alumnae Council.

Reaocrats are bleeding internally over their solicitude for those "senior citizens" — as they are mawkishly called. Rather, we would say, they plan to lie in wait like so many Old World brigands to strip better at 65 of a lifetime of self-respect and self-reliance — and to hold them as hostages to speed the day of the Welfare State.

WITHDRAWS

To the voters,
I regret to announce my decision not to be a candidate for the Arlington School Committee.

The Arlington School system is second to none. There are statistics to back this up. A community is only as good as its public school system and perhaps the three incumbent candidates are partially responsible for this.

If so, then why did I seek this office? I have been a resident of this town for a good many years and am only seeking to lend a small amount of my time to serve the town I love.

But this race is developing into a mess. Too many candidates would only serve to cloud the issue. I feel the incumbent candidates are well qualified and am impressed with the qualifications of aspirants Tom Galvin and Jim Barry. Now instead of seeking to serve on the school board, I will center my efforts upon being elected as a Town Meeting member from Precinct 5.

I think the statements of the very last moments candidate in last week's issue of this splendid publication were entirely uncalled for. This year, for a change, let's allow the candidates to run on their own merit without a cloud of confusion hovering over an impossible situation. It is indeed unfortunate that he who was the LAST candidate to file his papers for the school committee campaign was able to have printed statements in the newspaper concerning three candidates who filed their papers prior to his and then turn around and accuse the three of being a "surprise." Perhaps when the voters have spoken, it will be he who gets the "surprise."

Very truly yours,
David M. Parrella

To the voters,
I hereby announce the withdrawal of my candidacy for a seat on the Arlington School Committee.

During the past week, a candidate for this office, Mr. Leonard Clark, unfairly and unnecessarily cast aspersions on my motives for being a candidate. With so many candidates in the race, I feel now that my presence in the race might serve to enhance the opportunity for Mr. Clark to gain a seat on the board.

For I, like many others with whom I have talked, will not support a person who terms his fellow candidates for this most important office as "stooges".

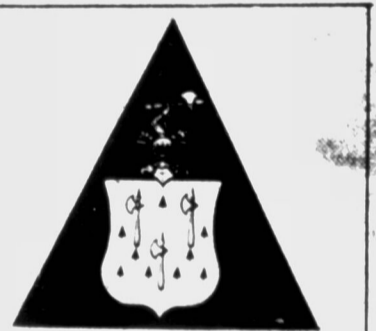

I feel my qualifications for this office merit the consideration of the voters and I hope to again be a candidate at a later date.

I wish to thank the many people who have expressed an interest in my candidacy. My efforts will now be directed in the interests of incumbent Velma Brown and newcomer Thomas Galvin, two very qualified candidates for the board.

And in conclusion just to clear the record — the last person to file his papers for the school committee race was not me. It was Mr. Leonard Clark. The town clerk's office can verify the validity of this.

Very truly yours,
William K. Burke

Editorials — Export Jobs, Import Labor

The cold light of fact now pierces the murk that has long surrounded the argument of whether or not this country has priced itself out of world markets.

An exhaustive study of import-export statistics, just released by the Ohio State Chamber of Commerce, reveals the frightening fact that we export relatively more raw materials and less finished manufactures today than we did ten years ago. The exact reverse is true of what we buy in foreign markets.

As an example of the disturbing details unearthed by the Chamber, our exports of scrap steel and pig iron for making steel are more than 25 times greater than in 1951. Our exports of steel mill products (sheet, plate, beams, etc.) are down three percent. On the import side of the ledger, we are buying 63 percent less scrap and pig-iron — and a whopping 84 percent more of finished steel mill products! This same trend is apparent in live animals versus animal products, grains versus grain products, minerals versus mineral products. Wherever value is added to a product by labor, the foreigners are going ahead in the race for world trade and we are falling behind.

The trend lines, carefully and painfully traced by the Ohio Chamber's study, clearly picture the great United States buying and selling abroad as if it were one of the underdeveloped countries we hear so much about. We do fine in oilseeds — but not as well as the foreigners in metals manufactures!

We are deluding ourselves if we think we have an advantage in labor productivity which offsets our higher wages. The hard-boiled figures of the past decade make it crystal-clear that it just plain isn't so.

Prices Down, Benefits Up

There's been a lot of discussion lately on drug prices, particularly ethical drugs — the kind for which you need a prescription. A good part of the discussion seems to have generated more heat than light.

Now the pharmaceutical industry itself has commissioned a series of studies to find out what the facts really are. The results aren't all in yet but some interesting items have already been turned up.

One of the studies, by Professor John Firestone of City College of New York, shows that between 1949 and 1960 the wholesale prices of prescription drugs actually declined 7.6 percent. In comparison, the wholesale prices of everything else, except farm and food products, rose 26.7 percent.

A second study, carried out by Arthur D. Little, Inc., reviews the social and economic benefits which the growth of the pharmaceutical industry has made possible. Some of these figures are decidedly startling.

For example, treatment and prevention of four major diseases — pneumonia, tuberculosis, influenza and syphilis — with prescription drugs has been responsible for an increase in annual American income of 7.5 billion dollars per year.

Nearly two million Americans, many of working age, are living now who would have lost their lives to these diseases if the 1935 mortality rate had remained steady. In addition, the cures produced by modern drugs are much faster than those available earlier — resulting in work savings of 162 million man-days a year.

Those of the two million who were working in 1960 alone earned nearly $5 billion. Those who lost fewer days of work — because their disability periods were shortened — earned $2.5 billion more.

The money paid for the prescription drugs which helped produce these enormous pocketbook gains was relatively modest. There is nothing modest, however, about the sum invested by the drug industry in research to bring the drugs into being in the first place. In the past 10 years alone, it came to 1.15 billion dollars.

On balance, the new drug discoveries have been a major factor in the continuing war on disease, the prices of drugs are going down, the benefits are going up.

Crime Commission Needed

Gov. John A. Volpe is on the right track in his proposal for a crime commission, and the legislation he proposes follows the sound principle that responsibility and authority should be combined.

By addressing a joint session of the Legislature in person, the chief executive underscored his conviction that immediate action is needed. This was pointed up further by the emergency preamble which would put the measure into effect at the moment of signature.

Gov. Volpe's bill offers an effective commission, and, in the final analysis, this is the only kind worth its salt.

The members could not be public officials. They could not be candidates for office. They would not be paid. Their seven-year terms would be staggered. Not only could the governor appoint them without confirmation by the Executive Council but, under his proposal, he could remove them for cause.

The need for such a weapon in behalf of society is compelling, obvious and deserves speedy action.

In essence, passage of the governor's legislation would place public morality within the commission's jurisdiction. This is needed because in Massachusetts, as elsewhere in the nation, organized crime is financed by number pool and bookie operations, minor crimes in themselves... but activities that jeopardize government and enforcement through corruption.

A recent poll revealed that more legislators supported a crime commission than opposed it. This, however, could be misleading and the views expressed in the poll won't necessarily be translated into "aye" votes for the bill.

Democrats naturally are apprehensive about handing such sweeping power to a governor of opposite political faith in an election year. They must, however,

That Man About Town By MAT

Certainly, our remarks on the deliberately cluttered race for School Committee had some effect. Over the weekend Burke and Parrella decided to withdraw. The other "sudden" candidate, Tom Galvin Jr., has announced he is "very much in the race" and never was "sudden."

It is being pointed out that the last to file before the deadline — therefore the "suddenest" — was Leonard D. Clark. However, Clark had his papers out for several weeks, as did the others.

As it stands now — in this ring, folks, you have seven gladiators. The three, re-running incumbents are Brown, Daily and Morine; plus four challengers, James Barry, Edward McCann, Tom Galvin, Jr. and Clark.

It is possible that Barry and McCann may run as a team. At least, they are thinking about it. This tandem idea we've discussed at length before and hope we don't have to, again.

With six males in the race and one female, it would appear that Mrs. Velma Brown would have as good a chance as anybody. As a campaigner she is not aggressive or dramatic. As a speaker she is level-toned, even drab. On the other hand, that's her style. She has stuck with it and won by it.

But, the main point is — what "liberal" minded voter is going to get in the booth and vote for three men. Isn't he going to say, come, come, one nod to a woman. Too, there are three of the frail sex on the board and that's a pretty good ratio (from the male point-of-view) — 3 out of 9.

The race for Selectman is going to turn hot — and soon!

This, too, is a 6-man race. Newcomer to the political scene is Carl Bergstrom of Orient ave. Observers feel he is in there to help incumbent Charlie Kent defeat the strong Republican name — Wm. A. Barnstead. On the Democrat side, Bullock will cut into Kent's vote. Also, Bullock is going to give it a big go — opening up headquarters, etc.

For Assessor, it is a nice, cozy fight between two for the one spot — just the same as it was three years ago, with the same principals: incumbent Walter "Buzzer" Cooledge vs. Robt. B. Walsh.

Last time, Walsh did very well but failed to unseat Cooledge. This year he might win. On the other hand, Cooledge realizes this and is doing some real work for the first time since his election 15 years ago. And, he wasn't called "Buzzer" on the AHS football team for nothing — even though weighing about 150 lbs.

The boss has asked us for a favor — and he seldom does. However, we feel partly responsible. Last week, the Advocate said Chris Cammarata ran "unsuccessfully" for Selectman last year. Actually, he never was a candidate, but was for Housing Authority. He later withdrew when incumbent Myron Chace finally decided to re-run, after first saying he would not.

Poor memory by the paper — should have been checked out. But, there were rumors about that Cammarata, after withdrawing from the Authority race, might switch to Selectman. This added up to some sense when one recalls that a powerful Italian name was in the race — and eventual winner — Phil Pellegrini (with Arthur Saul) over Barnstead.

We see that a new-comer, local newspaper in town is getting a bit hysterical. Hysteria is a feminine disorder. Check a big dictionary for full meaning.

PICTURED ABOVE is former Bryant & Stratton student, J. Stewart Patterson of 20 Tufts st., with Theodore Liffman, insurance instructor, and Mr. L. P. White, president of Bryant & Stratton, Patterson, who took the Insurance Course last fall and passed the Mass. Brokers Exam in December, is being congratulated by White on the opening of his own insurance company under the name of J. Stewart Patterson in Arlington.

From a letter: "Mr. Editor — If there is anything calculated to fill the average citizen with disgust, it is the whole attitude of the present Board of Selectmen and, as a consequence, of the police toward the dirty gin-mills of this town during the past year. If the Town wants another year like it, I would suggest that instead of re-electing the present Board of Selectmen, let us elect a straight and candid Rum-Board. Let it be composed of the proprietors of Arlington House and Russell Tavern and of the principal Licensed Victualler, in town!"

From a letter: "Mr. Editor — We often hear of school teachers' clubs and why shouldn't there be school parents clubs as well? At present about all the active interest the public is supposed to take in the schools is the Mother's occasional visit to the school room. Let the many parents connected with a school unite, and there would be a power astir that does not now exist. Will not someone be inspired to institute such an organization?"

Walsh Calls Attention To Conflict Of Interest

Robert B. Walsh, candidate for assessor, called attention this week to House of Representatives bill No. H2951, now before the legislature, as a "pertinent issue" in his campaign.

The bill if enacted would prohibit members of boards of assessors who are insurance agents or brokers from writing insurance on real estate property belonging to inhabitants of the city or town which he serves.

According to Walsh, the reason for introducing such law stems from the fact that many people consider it "conflict of interest" for an assessor to make a customer out of one for whom he must assess property. Walsh also feels that an assessor, so related, can not act objectively in his duties of assessing and judging abatements.

Said Walsh: "The sponsors of this legislative action believe that an insurance broker or agent who serves as an assessor has unfair advantage in procuring business to the detriment of his colleagues."

Quoting David D. Black, the petitioner: "it creates a monopoly for the seller and a priority for the buyer."

"It is a well known fact that my opponent, the incumbent assessor," continued Walsh, "is the insurer of many property owners in Arlington. I make no charge against his right to do so. However, the passage of House bill No. H2951 would confront my opponent with the following alternatives:

Candidate Walsh concluded: "I believe the voters of Arlington will want and are entitled to an expression from my opponent concerning his position in this regard."

Each year the nation's champion liars meet in annual convention and pick the king liar of them all. It's a hollow triumph any year, though, as the groundhog weather forecaster never takes part!

Red and Gray Jottings

by Connie Mugnai

In a recent basketball game, the girls varsity team topped Waltham 25-20. The Girls club has announced its plans for a twin soc hoc. The informal dance is scheduled for the night of February 17, Saturday, in the Junior High West gym.

At a recent Dramatic club meeting, Mrs. Elizabeth Sampson announced to the club two oratorical contests of interest. The first one is a 300-word essay on "What the United Nations Means To Me." Last year's winner, Jane Babin, enjoyed a six-day trip to New York City and the United Nations building for her winning essay and speech.

The other oratorical contest is the upcoming Elk Oratorical Contest. The subject is, "How I Can Help America Meet Communism's Challenge."

Sophomores, Juniors and Seniors who live in either Arlington or Belmont, from either public or parochial schools, are eligible. The annual sports awards assembly, in recognition of fall sports, was attended by juniors and sophomores on Friday, February 2. The first speaker, gym teacher Miss MacDonough, spoke of the success of the girls field hockey team. Mrs. Coutts, director of the cheerleaders, commended the girls on their fine spirit during sports events. And after Mr. Kelley spoke of AHS track team, Coach Ed Burns retold the glories of the football team during the past undefeated season and presented several members of the team with the traditional Arlington letter.

The local lodge received its charter in 1922 and has been an integral part of community life in Arlington since that time. A 40th anniversary committee of lodge members was formed last April to honor the observance of this event.

Committee chairman Richard Polcarl announced today that a 40th anniversary ball will be held on Friday, Feb. 23, at the Elliot Ballroom in Cambridge.

The Harry Marshard orchestra will play for dancing between 8 and 12. A lounge adjacent to the ballroom will be available

Aiken, Apprille Spur Boston College Sextet*PAUL AIKEN

Paul Aiken is scoring goals for the Boston College hockey team this winter while his Arlington neighbor, Tom Apprille, doesn't allow goals to be scored against Snooks Kelley's high-flying Eagles.

Aiken, the 5 ft. 10 in., 155-pound junior wing, scored the winning goal against Princeton recently and last week he set up the winning goal by Jack Leetch against Boston University.

Apprille played varsity football last fall, starting three games and seeing action in all 10 contests. The 5 ft. 9 in., 185-pound sophomore didn't report to Hockey Coach Kelley until after the opening game against Brown but has seen considerable action since that time.

of his time in the corner trying to get hold of the puck to feed the high-scoring Hogan and the pesky Sullivan.

With 14 assists to his credit, one realizes that his efforts of muscling around with big defensemen have been successful. The likeable Aiken teamed with Apprille at Arlington High when coach Eddie Burns' sextet won the State Ice crown back in 1959. Paul entered B.C. directly from Arlington while Tom spent a year at New Prep.

Apprille played the third period of the Northeastern game last December, and half of the B.C.-St. Lawrence game in the opening round of the E.C.A.C.'s Christmas Tourney at Madison Square Garden.

Tom has allowed only one goal this season, an effort by a Northeastern player from a goal-mouth scram- ble, while saving on some 67 shots. Quite an average! "It's nice to have Tom around," commented B.C. coach 'Snooks' Kelley. "If anything ever happened to Charlie Driscoll, we'd be in great shape."

All of our inter-squad scrimmages are low scoring affairs," continued Kelley. "They can't beat Driscoll and Apprille is impenetrable. When people tell me that we're a low scoring team all I have to do is look at Driscoll and Apprille and say — is it any wonder?"

Tom looms as Driscoll's successor next season when B.C. will lose only three starters from its varsity roster.

Aiken, who now has scored 10 goals this season, has been pestered by a recurring leg injury all season. When he skates for two successive shifts, one notices a grimace on the

St. Agnes Over Band Concert
Cambridge 3-2

Bob Heavern's All-Stars walked away with all honors over Cambridge at the Boston Skating club as 200 parents of both teams took part in the excitement. All boys had to be under 14 years of age.

Cambridge had their usual fast skating and fine back checking team. But this was overshadowed by the all-round hustle and determination of the boys from St. Agnes.

This same team will meet February 14 at 5:15 on the M.D.C. rink on Rt. 2 in Belmont.

Scorers for St. Agnes were Bartholomew, Larogington, Heavern, Cuechians, Powers, Regan and Reste. Cambridge goals: Donnelly and Hart.

The JV's won 4-0 but they certainly had to work for it. The Intra-Mural All-Stars who range in age from 10 to 16 gave them a surprise: Lyons Club.

Senior band will feature a special arrangement of the music from "West Side Story."

The 80-piece Junior band is current CYO champion in its class. In addition to the band music the North-shoremen Quartet, current Northeast District champion, and Teddy English, known to many as the "fall guy," will appear.

The Concert will include: (by the Junior Band) Queen City March, Andante Cantabile (Tchaikowsky), King and I, Bassology March, Toyland Waltz, Wonderland By Night, Light Cavalry Overture.

(By the Senior Band) Old Comrades March, Overture William Tell (finale), Trombrero, Marche Poco, Granada, St. Louis Blues March, West Side Story, On the Mall March, Victory At Sea.

Safety Council Hears Fire Plan

At the Jan. 25 meeting of the Arlington Council for Safety a "Home Fire Escape Plan" was presented to PTA and faculty representatives of the Brackett, Cutter, Dallin, Hardy, Parmenter and Peirce schools.

The plan, prepared by the council and presented by Deputy Chief Lennon, outlined safety precautions for the home:

Check your house, inside and out, for fire hazards; know the location of your nearest fire box; have an escape plan; remove obstructions from passageways; provide every room with two means of exit.

The plan also gave seven rules of what to do in case of fire: 1. Keep calm; 2. Arouse everyone before; 3. Call the fire dept.; 4. Get close to the floor if there is dense heat or smoke; 5. Never open a hot door; 6. Remember, when people panic they hide under beds, in closets and will not move; 7. Pull fire alarm box and direct fire dept.

The new rainy weather ponchos were shown at the meeting and all the PTA's were urged to try working them into their budgets.

Also discussed were Gov. Volpe's highway safety plan (the council hoped to work more closely with the state program in the future) and a patrol leader trip to a baseball game.

Next meeting of the council will be Wednesday, March 14, at the Parmenter school.

PEIRCE PTA

William McKearin opened his first meeting as newly-appointed president of the Peirce PTA held on Jan. 18. He announced the evening's program had been especially planned to stress to parents the importance of moral principles for children.

Mrs. Tjaard Hommes, 2nd v-pres., introduced three interesting and revealing guest speakers who were responsible for the good turn-out at this meeting. The subject discussed was "When Our Children Ask About God". The members of the clergy covering this topic were the Reverend James Daniels of the Methodist church in Arlington, Rev. Edward A. Hofer, CSP of St. Ann's Church in Boston, who is also chaplain of the Newman Club of Northeastern Univ., and Rabbi Herbert Rosenblum of Temple Emunah of Lexington. A question and answer period followed.

BISHOP PTA
Members of the Bishop PTA toured the Harvard-Arlington instruction van at their meeting, Thursday, Jan. 18.

The instruction van, in which 350 Arlington sixth graders are taught elementary French, was stationed at the Bishop School at the regular PTA meeting. The parents went into the van, put on headpieces and listened to the soundtrack while viewing the film. The use of this van is a pioneer conception of the administration of Arlington Public schools. Science Electronics, Inc. of Cambridge designed and instructed the unit, while the Payne Fund of New York provided the money.

Mr. Donohue, the instructor, travels with the van to each of the Arlington elementary schools twice weekly for a twenty-five minute teaching period. He is accompanied by a driver, furnished by the town. Eighteen pupils are selected from each school.

Duties Of Citizens Cited

In a statement to this paper Edward G. McCann, candidate for school committee, said that we all have a civic duty and responsibility to vote on election day March 5th.

He further stated that we have a responsibility to our fellow taxpayers who bear the burden of educational expenses and certainly a responsibility to the children in our schools who will be competing for job opportunities, and college placement in the very near future.

McCann believes these three responsibilities can be met by voting for only qualified candidates. He stressed the importance of examining the qualifications of each and every candidate for the office of school committee before election day, trying to ascertain whether these qualifications will help to meet the needs of the pupils, parents and taxpayers.

McCann feels the record of the candidates for reelection should be scrutinized very closely to make sure they are upholding the faith and responsibility we placed in them three years ago.

There are but four short weeks left, he stated, to evaluate the candidates' qualifications and the record of present members of the school committee who are candidates for reelection. Whether the office to be filled is school committee, town meeting member or any other office, "Arlington needs and deserves the best public officials."

Candidate McCann summed up his statement by saying the Arlington School Committee can afford nothing short of qualified and dedicated leaders, and this can only be accomplished through an early appraisal of the candidates.

McCann notes that he is presently traveling throughout the town ringing "as many doorbells as is physically possible so that he may personally present his qualification.

Water Supply Talk Heard

The story of Boston's water supply from the establishment of the first water works company in 1652 to the present use of Quabbin reservoir was told by Chester J. Ginder of the Metropolitan District Commission at last week's meeting of the Arlington Historical Society.

Ginder has been with the M.D.C. as design engineer for heavy construction of water supply installations for the past 35 years.

He traced the development of the city's water supply from the original 12 foot square reservoir near Dock square in 1652. In 1795 a system of log pipes was laid from Jamaica pond to Franklin st. near State and Broad sts.

A city-wide demonstration with parades and fireworks took place in 1848 celebrating the first real water supply to be brought into Boston by aqueduct from Long pond in Framingham (now Lake Cochituate).

As population and water needs increased new sources were tapped to the west, and in 1905 the Wachusett reservoir in Clinton was put into operation. Foreseeing future needs in the Greater Boston area, the M.D.C. began construction in 1927 of Quabbin reservoir on the Swift river west of Ware. Completed in 1940, this huge reservoir, connected by tunnels to Wachusett large enough to drive a car through, provides a potential supply of 330 million gallons of water daily.

It is anticipated that Boston's demands may reach this figure by 1995, and plans are being made for work on the Miller's river to provide some 519 million gallons daily should the need arise.

Vice president Hollis M. Gott conducted the business meeting during which Leonard Collins of Highland ave. was elected to society membership and silent tribute was paid to the memory of Mrs. Herbert D. Rogers.

A report of the January meeting of the Bay State Historical League at the Boston Museum of Fine Arts was presented by Elizabeth Yerrinton.

A social hour followed the meeting.
